

Is Recovery From Autism Possible?

Marcia Hinds is the author of I Know You're In There - Winning Our War Against Autism. Marcia's inspirational book has brought hope and answers to families all over the world.

The "experts" said Ryan would need to be institutionalized. They were wrong. Ryan is now an engineer at a major aerospace company, has good friends, and leads a typical life.

I Know You're In There - Winning Our War Against Autism is the true account of one family's triumph over autism. Ryan's parents realized something was not right with their son. They knew it before the psychiatrist told them that Ryan would end up in an institution. The autism diagnosis ripped away every dream these parents had for their child.

Ryan's story illustrates what is possible when a child's medical conditions are treated in conjunction with intensive behavioral and educational rehabilitation. Segments of the book are written by every member of the family – including Ryan himself. His family never gave up on him because they knew he was in there.

Ryan's recovery story will make you RETHINK autism and shows that an autism diagnosis no longer has to mean "game over."

There IS hope...it IS possible to have a different outcome for children with autism!

Marcia Hinds' powerful message has been featured at autism conferences across the United States. Her book shows how to fight back and not accept the myths that come with an autism diagnosis. Marcia has more than fifteen years' experience as an educational and behavioral consultant. Having obtained her degree in psychology and sociology from the University of California at Los Angeles (UCLA), Marcia became a credentialed, practicing K-12 teacher. But Marcia's most impressive credential is that she is Ryan's mother, and their family survived autism.
